Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Price Doyle, a fine gentleman worthy of all the honor that Murray State University could heap upon him, entered Rotary at Concord, North Carolina in 1924.

Nix Crawford is a square dancer.

Speaker at Rotary yesterday was Juan Rodriguez. We wish we could speak Spanish as well as he speaks English.

Juan showed some colored slides of Guatemala, his native country, and included some orchids hanging from the trees and other growing in the ground. He showed a beautiful waterfall the water falling from heights in a thin diaphanous rain.

An elderly retired gent who had taken a room in a hotel had just gone to bed when a flashing blonde bounced into the room. "Oh, excuse me," she apologized, "I must have gotten into the wrong room!"

The old man sighed: "Not only that, young lady, but you got here 40 years too late."

We felt right sorry for old Trampas on the other night. We knew he would never be able to marry the girl anyway and we wondered what was going to happen.

There is a commercial that comes on the TV that utilizes a chime which sounds just like the door bell. Lady the dog barks every time the thing comes on, thinking it is someone at the door. Naturally she starts barking when anyone comes to the door. She is not the most sociable dog we know.

Spent brought in a turtle yesterday. Small one. Quite dead. When we found it anyway.

Purchase Area EOC Torn By Charges Of Racism Last Night

MAYFIELD, Ky. — The Purchase Area Economic Opportunity Council last night voted to retain Curlee Brown, Paducah, as director of a Nelson Amendment work plan for McCracken, Marshall, Graves and Calloway counties during the remaining five weeks of the current program.

The motion also contained a provision that Noel Warren of Calloway County will be dismissed from his position in the program.

The action came after lengthy discussion and a spirited speech by Brown.

Brown has been heading the program in McCracken County under the title of director. Warren does similar work in Calloway, Marshall and Graves counties.

The argument centered around Warren's title and his $750 a month salary which was cut to when Warren took on super-titles.

Juan Rodriguez Guest Speaker For Rotary Thursday At Noon

Juan Rodriguez, graduate assistant on the faculty of Murray State University was the speaker yesterday at the Murray Rotary Club meeting.

Rodriguez, speaking in fluent English, described his native country of Guatemala to the Rotarians. Using slides and comment, he carried Rotarians on a "trip" through the Central American nation.

He told the club that the country exported coffee, sugar, and bananas and imported many of the items in daily use such as automobiles, and other hard goods.

With colored slides, Rodriguez depicted the colorful landscape of his native country from the lowlands near the coast to the mountains. Some of the slides were taken on the large ranch operated by his parents where they raise cattle, and grow coffee and maintain a dairy farm.

Rodriguez was introduced by Ray Moffett, who was in charge of the program.

Lindie Carr, operator of the Palace Drive-In Restaurant was introduced as a new Rotarian. Guest of George Overbey was Circuit Judge Richard Peek.

The orchestra was composed of: Kathy Scott, Joyce Scott, Ralph Tessenore, Cindy Wagar, Christine Kodman, Marilyn Alexander, Debbie Heroux, Terry Ober and Cathy Lather; violas, Mary Jane Buchanan and Vickie Cope; cello, Mary Eryl Winter and Jan Fren.

Audit For Water System Is Approved; Fees Are Revised

A new fire engine to be placed on the chassis purchased at the last council meeting, was bought last night by the Murray City Council from the Howe Fire Apparatus Company of Anderson, Indiana. The company placed a bid of $18,980.00 for the 1000 gallon per minute pumper and promised to deliver it in 130 working days from the time it received the chassis.

The International chassis was purchased at the last council meeting on February 9 from Truck Equipment Sales of Murray for $6,588.10. When the chassis is ready it will go to the Anderson, Indiana plant of Howe for installation of the fire engine body with all of its apparatus and equipment.

Howe specializes in fire apparatus equipment.

The only other bid was from the Peter French & Sons Company of Kenosha, Wisconsin. This firm bid $22,500 on the fire engine with delivery in 250 to 280 working days.

N. E. Schultz of Bolivar, Tennessee, was present and represented the Howe Company and Robert Orlert of Louisville was present for Peter French.

The council also received bids on a new street sweeper. Two bids were received on this piece of equipment, also with the old Elgin sweeper the city now has, to be accepted on trade-in.

Rudd Construction Equipment Company, Inc. of Louisville was the low bidder. They made a gross bid of $12,248 and allowed $4,111 on the trade-in, leaving a net bid of $8,137.00. They will deliver in thirty days.

Bob Pence and Ben Rose were present at the meeting representing Rudd.

Only other bidder was Contractor's Sales Company of Louisville. This firm had a gross bid of $12,036 with a trade-in of $2,170 leaving a net bid of $9,866.00. Dan James represented this company.

The council plans to pay one half of the purchase price at the time of delivery and pay the other half in April 1968 with interest at six per cent.

Rudd handles the Wayne Street sweeper and Contractor's Sales is dealer for the Elgin.

Joe Pat Trevathan of the firm of Richardson and Trevathan was present at the council meeting and reviewed the audit of the Murray Water and Sewer System.

Trevathan went over the audit pointing out that the operating revenue of the system increased by $36,000 over 1965 to the sum of nearly $300,000. Tapping fees, consumers forfeited discounts and miscellaneous revenues also showed increases.

Operation costs of the system also showed an increase. However, these costs were not as much as the increase in revenue.

Total assets of the system are listed as $2,627,276 in the audit. Trevathan indicated in the audit that the system is in excellent financial condition and that the bond requirements are being met. Separate accounts are kept for the bond issue payments and interest. The $300,000 bond issue of 1963 will be paid off in 1970 and the $350,000 bond issue of 1964 will be paid off in 1978. The last bond issue was in 1961 and amounts to $750,000.

The audit also reflected that by the end of 1966 the system had 3,655 metered water customers and 3,410 sewer users.

The council approved the audit and thanked Mr. Trevathan for his work.

The speed limit on North 15th Street will be increased from 15 miles per hour to 25 miles per hour.

No Further Developments On Theft

No developments have been reported in the theft at Kirksey School which occurred Wednesday night.

Thieves entered the school and smashed a safe in the school office and stole about $300.

The money represented money the school children had made by selling flower seed. Each class sold the seed and the funds in the safe represented not only what was to be paid to the firm selling the seed, but also what profit the children made also.

The theft was discovered when the school was opened yesterday morning.

Murray To Meet Western In Final Game Of Season Here

The Murray State Thoragheders will wrap up their season Saturday night in a home game with Western Kentucky, who has already won the Ohio Valley Conference championship and is the No. 3 team in the country.

The game will be the third of the season between the two teams. Western won the first two—64-53 in the OVC Tournament and 86-79 in overtime at Bowling Green.

Western has won 21 straight games since losing its first game of the season to Vanderbilt and is 11-0 in the OVC after beating Morehead and Eastern on a weekend roadtrip.

Murray has a 13-9 overall record and is 7-6 in the conference.

Western will likely have All-America Glen Hawkins in action for Saturday's game for the first time since the Murray-Western game in Bowling Green. Hawkins broke a bone in his wrist in that game with three minutes of regulation time left.

However, he continued to play and scored 9 more points before the game ended and had 33 for the night.

The Toppers have played quite well without Hawkins and have moved from eighth to third in the Associated Press poll since he has been hurt. Mike Fawcett, a 5-10 junior guard has been the fifth Western starter. He plays out front and Dwight Smith plays at Hawkins' forward post. The other Toppers starters are Greg Smith, Wayne Chapman, and Butch Kaufman.

In both previous games with the Hilltoppers, Murray has had outstanding performance from Dick Cunningham, the nation's No. 1 rebounder. Cunningham had 28 points and 23 rebounds in the tournament game and 17 points and 22 rebounds at Western. Herb McPherson has also had two of his better games against the Toppers. He had 28 points at Louisville and 24 at Bowling Green. Don Duncan had his best game of the year at Bowling Green as he scored 19 points and directed the Razor offense.

McPherson is averaging 21.6 points for the season. Billy Chamberler, 16-5, Cunningham 14.5, Duncan 14.5, and Rick Haverstock 10.8.

Jim Stock, reserve center-forward, had two good games on Murray's roadtrip to East Tennessee and Tennessee Tech as he scored 8 and 16 points. The Racers split the two games and now have beaten every team in the OVC but Western. They had beaten Tech at Murray but lost to East Tennessee. They edged East 88-85 in two overtimes at Johnson City and fell to Tech 88-86 at Cookeville.

Saturday's game has been sold out for months. The Murray-Western froth will play a preliminary at 6 o'clock. Varsity action will begin at 8.

The Almanac

Today is Friday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1967 with 310 to follow.

The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born today are under the sign of Pisces.

Adm. Chester Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of United States Naval Forces in the Pacific in World War II, was born on this day in 1885.

On this day in history:

In 1935, a group of Germans organized the National Socialist Party, a forerunner of the Nazi party to be led by Hitler.

In 1945, American troops liberated Manila from the Japanese.

In 1946, Juan Peron was elected President of Argentina.

In 1956, President Nkrumah of Ghana was ousted from office.

A thought for the day — French writer Pierre Corneille once said: "He who allows himself to be insulted deserves to be."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

WHICH HOUSE IS YOUR CASTLE?

Three centuries ago, an English judge proclaimed that "a man's house is his castle."

Almost two centuries ago, the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution forbade any "unreasonable search" of a private dwelling.

And today, the safety of a person's house from governmental intrusion still ranks as one of the most distinctive hallmarks of a free land.

But which "house" is the law talking about?

Obviously it means a house that you own and live in. And it includes a house or apartment that you occupy as a tenant.

Summer cottage? House trailer? Hotel room? All these too, since they are places of dwelling, ordinarily share the constitutional guarantee of privacy.

The protection may also reach beyond the house itself. Courts have held it to include a householder's adjacent garage and a farmer's nearby barn. In both cases, the courts felt that the constitutional shelter should cover all areas reasonably within the ambit of family life.

Does this mean that the home is a privileged sanctuary for crime? Not at all. A house may indeed be searched under proper circumstances — for example, if the police first obtain a warrant, or are in the process of making a lawful arrest.

For then the search is "reasonable," not forbidden by the constitutional ban. As a United States Supreme Court justice said in upholding rightful searches:

"The framers of the Constitution only intended to restrain the abuse, not abolish the power."

But without such justifying circumstances, a house stands secure against the inroads of officialdom. An English statesman, Sir William Pitt, gave the doctrine its classical expression:

"The poorest man may in his cottage bid defiance to all the force of the Crown. It may be frail; its roof may shake; the wind may blow through it; the storms may enter; the rain may enter; but the King of England cannot enter; all his force dare not cross the threshold of the ruined tenement!"

GRANMA'S RECIPE

For Washing Clothes . . . given many years ago to a young bride by her Kentucky mountain grand-mother, as it was originally written.

1. Hold fire in back yard to heat kettles of rain water.

2. Put soap on embers won't blow away, once it is hot.

3. Shave one hole cake like soap in bitter water.

4. Next morning make three kettles.

1. Kettle white 1. Kettle colored. 1. Kettle with blue and red.

5. Stir flour in cold water to smooth then thin down with blin water.

6. Rub dirty spots on board with hard, then blin rub out.

7. Take white things out of kettle with broomstick handle then scrub, blow and starch.

8. Sore feet towels on grass.

9. Have old ones on fence.

10. Pour red water in flower bed.

11. Scrub porch with hot soap water.

12. Turn tubs inside down.

13. So out on clean dress . . . smooth hair with side comb . . . brew cup of tea . . . set and rest a spell and count blessings.

We can't think of a single comment to make after that, except that life has changed so much in the past 100 years and past 90 years.

lowing statement apparently directed at the white board members, he said: "We have allowed you to run it up to now — we aren't any more."

Brown charged there are discrepancies in the Nelson Amendment program. He said he had encountered "interference from every angle."

He said nobody was concerned about the salary of Dr. Ray Moffield (board chairman and assistant to the president of Murray State University), or Schell or others. "But here's a Negro getting $500 a month — and that's the problem." (None of the board members are paid for EOC work).

Brown charged that Russell Mills, Paducah educator who is affiliated with the EOC staff, had been hired as "go-between."

He has done everything but tear up the Nelson (program). Later, Brown referred to Mills as a "professional flunky."

"It's all too clear, I'm a Negro,"

Brown said.

Brown listed instances in which he had aided poor people with his personal funds or had helped them to establish contacts with agencies who could help them.

Of those he has helped, all but two were white persons, he said.

Dr. Moffield made the only response to Brown's speech. He said he regretted that Brown had made references about Mills and that Mills was not present to reply.

Dr. Moffield began the discussion earlier with a review of the Nelson Amendment program.

He said minutes of meetings last July were not clear but that it appeared there was sentiment for the hiring of two men to head the Nelson program. Later, however, the formal request sent to Washington specified only one director.

In the meantime, Dr. Moffield said former EOC Director Joe Maynard "promised" the job to Brown "to recommend him."

He may have gone further, but if he did he didn't have authority to do so.

At a Murray meeting last July, Dr. Moffield said the board decided Brown would head the Nelson program in McCracken and Warren would direct it in the other counties.

Schell said at one point the "Washington is upset" about the Nelson director battle and the program itself is in jeopardy.

A Graves County board member offered a motion that the jobs of both Brown and Warren be terminated as of March 31.

Later, he withdrew it.

Marshall County Judge Paul Howard and other directors emphasized they had no quarrel with accomplishments of the Nelson work program or with the work of Brown or Warren.

But Howard said, "They (EOC officials) have shown us they can pretty well call the shots down here. Certainly, we don't want to do anything to lose the program."

The board earlier had failed to come to an agreement on the hiring of "someone to supervise a new program involving on-the-job training for 100 persons in the four counties."

The application of Elliott C. Mitchell for the post was read. Mitchell, a retired Army officer, is a former assistant secretary-manager of the Paducah Chamber of Commerce.

The reading of his application set off complaints from board members in Marshall, Graves, and Calloway counties. Some of those directors said nearly all of the EOC's assisted positions are filled by McCracken County people.

Finally, it was voted to name a selection committee which will consider applicants and make a report at the next council meeting.

Judge Howard said interviews are continuing toward the selection of a director for the EOC.

Schell has been acting director since last summer when Maynard resigned.

Howard said he hoped the committee could make a recommendation at the next meeting.

The committee earlier submitted three names to EOC officials in Washington. One, whose name was at the top of the list, already is a director in the EOC program. He was not identified by name.

In the audience were present board members and others who will become board members in March. Approximately 60 persons sat through the two-hour session.

The new board, when it is seated, will have 40 members. The present board numbers 24.

THE J. H. CHURCHILL FUNERAL HOME

THE J. H. CHURCHILL FUNERAL HOME

Will Continue To Operate Its AMBULANCE SERVICE

We have served the people of Murray and Calloway County with an ambulance service since 1924 and possess a record of which we are proud.

The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home has always considered ambulance service an important adjunct to its business of serving the people.

We had a combination ambulance from 1924 to 1932 and at that time purchased our first exclusive ambulance (a car which is designed and furnished for the transportation of the sick and wounded, not a combination hearse and ambulance).

Since 1932 the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home has operated Calloway County's only exclusive ambulance service and the same is true today. We have one exclusive ambulance fully air-conditioned, and equipped with oxygen. We have two other combination cars that are fully equipped with oxygen and are also air-conditioned.

The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home is home owned with full time employees who are fully competent to render first aid. They hold the American Red Cross Certificate, having completed the Advanced Course of Instruction in First Aid to the Injured. They completed this course on December 9, 1966.

We are meeting all Federal and State laws and regulations concerning ambulance service.

We will continue to operate an ambulance service just as long as we are able since we feel that it is a most important service to our community, and because we feel it is our duty to perform it to the best of our ability.

Our ambulance service is performed with the same spirit that we perform our funeral services . . . with Reverence, Sincerity, Dignity and Economy.

The J. H. Churchill Funeral Home is making this announcement today because of the wide news coverage being given to the halting of ambulance service by funeral homes in this area.

Mark This Package 'Handle with Care'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After 15 years of marriage I am on the verge of cracking up. My husband is a good provider, BUT he believes that he is free to go, night club with his friends, go out when he pleases, come home when he pleases, with no questions asked. And the wife is supposed to stay home, raise the children and keep her mouth shut.

For years I have put up with this for the children's sake, but last night he went too far. He stayed out all night! He claims he was playing poker, and didn't want to call me because he was afraid he'd wake me up. WAKE ME UP? I DIDN'T CLOSE MY EYES ALL NIGHT! I am not old, fat, ugly, or cold. I am thinking of leaving him. Can I put him out of the house, or must I be the one to leave? Doesn't a wife have any legal rights at all? I am sick of being treated like a doormat.

DEAR ABBY: You have a whole flock of lovely legal rights with which an attorney would be glad to acquaint you. If you were to refile them to Reverend Boy, I can promise you (a) a more considerate mate, (b) none at all.

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything wrong with a girl making out just a little to keep a fellow interested in dating her? I don't mean a great love scene or anything like that, just a little light teasing and a couple of kisses during the evening, and maybe one extra special good night kiss?

DEAR ABBY: Starting to DATE DEAR STARTING: That's a dangerous game. The kind of "inter-est" you could arouse might cost you much more than you planned to pay.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very serious problem. I keep changing my mind about, so maybe you can help me decide.

My fiancé lives about 600 miles from here, and we plan to be married this summer. We've gone together three years and we are really crazy about each other, but here's the problem:

Recently he sent me an engagement ring, and in plain words, I just don't like it. To tell you the truth, it looks awfully cheap, and I am ashamed to wear it. I love this fellow very much and don't want to hurt him, but what can I do?

DEAR ABBY: Keep it and wear it. Perhaps it's the best he could afford at the moment. You need not be "ashamed" to wear the ring of a fellow of whom you're proud.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BETTE AND BUDDY: I would say that the best time for divorce is during the courtship.

How like the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Household Hints

To frost cupcakes for school lunches, split the cakes and spread the frosting inside. Put together, sandwich style.

Use undiluted bleach in cracks of ceramic tile to keep white and clean.

For quick pizzas, split English muffins in half and butter. Spread with tomato paste mixed with meat sauce and cooked, crumbled bacon. Top with grated cheese and broil 8 to 10 minutes.

Pre-treat heavily soiled areas in clothes for the laundry. Soak before starting the wash or brush a little extra detergent into areas where the dirt has been ground in — the collars of shirts or the knees of play clothes, for instance.

Wash linen chemise separately. If it's to be dried outdoors hang the wrong side out so that buffed surfaces can blow against each other to make the pile.

Use a steam iron to raise the nap on velvets, corduroys and sueds. The iron works well on hats and even upholstery. Hold the iron just above the fabric surface with the pile side up and allow the steam to penetrate. Velvets can be re-stiffened by ironing with a dry iron between layers of waxed paper.

FILES FOR DIVORCE

SANTA MONICA, Calif. 496 — Frances Heffin, wife of actor Van Heflin, filed suit for divorce Monday, charging her husband of nearly 25 years with extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Heffin estimated her husband's net worth at about $1 million and asked the court for $5,000 monthly support for herself and their son, Tracy Neal.

Superior Judge Edward Brand set a hearing for next Thursday.

What's New

United Press International
Make your own "mod" belt from a kit packaged with gold-finished buckle, 44 inches of leather-like vinyl contoured for hip-hugging fit, five large eyelets and Velcro tool. The belt material comes in assorted widths.

A new closet accessory helps eliminate the problem of mildew. It's a cake that can be hung by its own tab on a hanger or hook, placed in drawers, trunk, gym lockers, sail bags, or slipped under a mattress. Side vents in the slender container let the vapors from the cake escape. The cake is stainless and safe to use anywhere, the maker says.

New for baths is a self-rimming counter-top lavatory made of acid-resistant enameled cast iron. The self-rimming feature eliminates the need for a metal rim, thus removing dirt catching counter seams. It comes in white and six other colors.

For lawn care, a new oscillating sprinkler like a built-in water timer that enables dialing the exact amount of water needed. It can gauge up to 1,500 gallons at a single setting.

A new floor finish won't yellow, is slip resistant, and its vinyl surface will retain its gloss even after 10 detergent washings, says the maker.

Now lemon oil polish comes in an aerosol container. It's suggested for furniture, wood paneling and cleaning stainless steel.

ROMNEY HAS CHANCE

DETROIT 6P — Pollster Lou Harris said Monday Gov. George Romney currently is in good position to get the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination.

"It's up to Romney to move out and get it," Harris told the Detroit Economic Club. He said Romney's biggest problem may be a Vietnam policy. "It's not so much they oppose his policy, it's that he hasn't taken a stand," Harris said.

Crucial states for Romney will be Ohio and Illinois, said Harris who suggested Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois might be a compromise candidate in case of a deadlock between Romney and Richard Nixon.

FREE IN 6 KILLS—Jose Suarez, 25, is free in New York after admitting last April that he knifed to death his common-law wife and their three children plus her two others by a previous father. He was freed on a motion by an assistant district attorney, who said the confession was the only evidence and that it was obtained without Suarez being informed of his right to counsel—a technicality conforming to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

TRIMMING AWAY THE FAT
The ordinary American, who finds the keeping of his check-book a not inconsiderable task, surely must be stunned at the size and complexity of the federal budget proposed by President Johnson. Congress, with all its experts on fiscal matters, will be many weeks, if not months, unravelling all the threads of spending that Mr. Johnson has spun in the budget. Yet every American, housewife as well as professional economist, can grasp the single most important feature of the budget: it is "super-colossal," to use a fanciful term employed by Hollywood motion picture producers. Indeed the administration budget is like a Hollywood production in all its lavishness.

It is true, of course, that a large part of the budget goes for necessary expenditures such as national defense. The American people can't afford to skimp on their own security. However, even here economy-minded congressmen should carefully scrutinize proposed spending.

Leaving defense aside, it is clear from the budget that Mr. Johnson intends not simply to have guns and butter, but guns and caviar and champagne. He hasn't proposed any reduction in lavish Great Society spending. On the contrary, the pro-administration "Washington Post" correctly points out that "outlays for health, education and general welfare programs are budgeted to rise." It adds that "the Great Society programs should be stronger on July 1, 1969, than they are at the present time."

This means that Mr. Johnson has refused to heed the warning yellow light flashed by the voters in the fall congressional elections. The Great Society was a major issue, and the voters sent a much-reinforced Republican contingent to Congress because of opposition to giveaways.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Johnson has not paid attention to the warning light. This is the time to cut down on unnecessary spending.

Consider the farm subsidy program, for instance. Today the U.S. has greatly depleted its former agricultural surpluses. This means that America is in an ideal position to get rid of the New Deal-style farm programs and to shift agriculture to a free market economy. Farmers and consumers could be happy at the same time, with an end to quotas and controls and subsidies. But Mr. Johnson has refused to take such reasonable action. Instead, he has budgeted $3.2 billion for farm subsidies and another $1.8 billion for intermountain food giveaways. The latter never won a friend for Uncle Sam.

Foreign aid has fewer and fewer friends in Congress. Even some

Mark This Package 'Handle with Care'

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After 15 years of marriage I am on the verge of cracking up. My husband is a good provider, BUT he believes that he is free to golf, night club with his friends, go out when he pleases, come home when he pleases, with no questions asked. And the wife is supposed to stay home, raise the children and keep her mouth shut. For years I have put up with this for the children's sake, but last night he went too far. He stayed out all night! He claims he was playing poker, and didn't want to call me because he was afraid he'd wake me up. WAKE ME UP! I DIDN'T CLOSE MY EYES ALL NIGHT! I am not old, fat, ugly, or cold. I am thinking of leaving him. Can I put him out of the house, or must I be the one to leave? Doesn't a wife have any legal rights at all? I am sick of being treated like a doormat. SICK OF IT.

DEAR SICK: You have a whole flock of lovely legal rights with which an attorney would be glad to acquaint you. If you were to re-cite them to Rover Boy, I can promise you (a) a more considerate male, (b) none at all.

DEAR ABBY: Is there anything wrong with a girl making out just a little to keep a fellow interested in dating her? I don't mean a great big love scene or anything like that, just a little light necking and a couple of kisses during the evening, and maybe one extra special good night kiss?

DEAR STARTING: That's a dangerous game. The kind of "interruption" you could arouse might cost you a lot.

DEAR ENGAGED: Keep it and your fiancé. Perhaps it's the best he could afford at the moment. You need not be "ashamed" to wear the ring of a fellow of whom you're proud.

DEAR ENGAGED: Keep it and your fiancé. Perhaps it's the best he could afford at the moment. You need not be "ashamed" to wear the ring of a fellow of whom you're proud.

DEAR ABBY: How has the world been treating you? Unless your problems on Dear Abby, Box 9770, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009. For a personal, unpublished reply, include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 9770, Los Angeles, Cal. 90009.

Household Hints

To frost cupcakes for school lunches, split the cakes and spread the frosting inside. For together, sandwich style.

Use undiluted bleach in cracks of ceramic tile to keep white and clean.

For quick plums, split English muffins in half and butter. Spread with tomato paste mixed with meat sauce and cooked, crumbled bacon. Top with grated cheese and broil 8 to 10 minutes.

Pre-treat heavily soiled areas in clothes for the laundry. Soak before starting the wash or brush a little extra detergent into areas where the dirt has been ground in — the collars of shirts or the knees of play clothes, for instance.

Wash linty chenille separately. If it's to be dried outdoors hang the wrong side out so that tufted surfaces can blow against each other to raise the pile.

Use a steam iron to raise the nap on velvets, corduroys and suedes. The iron works well on hats and even upholstery. Hold the iron just above the fabric surface with the pile side up and allow the steam to penetrate. Velvets can be re-stuffed by ironing with a dry iron between layers of waxed paper.

FILES FOR DIVORCE

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UP) — Frances Heikin, wife of actor Van Heflin, filed suit for divorce Monday, charging her husband of nearly 20 years with extreme cruelty.

Mrs. Heikin estimated her husband's net worth at about $12 million and asked the court for $3,500 monthly support for her.

Superior Judge Edward Brand set a hearing for next Thursday.

Early Easter Blooms Are Ripe For Picking Now

By TAD ROWADY

With Easter not too far in the offing—March 26th to be exact—it is none too soon to begin making plans for the Spring festivities.

And, because clothes share a major part of the spotlight at this time of year and with warm weather a'coming, lets start off with versatile finery for the June file which will take Easter and after Easter in its stride.

The stores are now teeming with delightful, smart Spring-time fashions, such as the ones pictured here, for the 3 to 6X and 7 to 14 age groups. The selection is extensive and geared to please every taste.

These are designed by RAR-Moppets in 100% easy-care orlon bonded knits because knits are having a tremendous explosion in adult and children's wear. They are simple and crisp in silhouette and are elegantly and timelessly styled.

The coats and dresses throughout this varied collection are fully lined and come colorfully coordinated down to charming matching hats.

All are fashioned to flatter and enhance little ones and all will please even the most demanding and doting grandmas who loves buying pretties.

COLLAR and low-placed belt of this chic double-breasted white coat are outlined in navy. Also comes in navy with white trim.

PERKY, A-line sleeveless dress comes in white with navy trim or navy with white accents, boasts matching pom pom belt.

BEAUTIFULLY simple, straight-line, double-breasted solid green coat features a trim Peter Pan collar, set-in sleeves, and four buttoned pocket flaps. Comes also in solid orange.

ROMNEY HAS CHANCE

DETROIT 27P — Pollster Lou Harris said Monday Gov. George Romney currently is in good position to get the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination.

"It's up to Romney to move out and get it," Harris told the Detroit Economic Club. He said Romney's biggest problem may be a Vietnam policy. "It's not so much they oppose his policy, it's that he hasn't taken a stand," Harris said.

Critical states for Romney will be Ohio and Illinois, said Harris who suggested Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois might be a compromise candidate in case of a deadlock between Romney and Richard Nixon.

FREE IN 6 KILLS—John Suarez, 27, is free in New York after admitting last April that he knifed to death his common-law wife and their three children plus her two others by a previous father. He was freed on a motion by an assistant district attorney, who said the confession was the only evidence and that it was obtained without Suarez being informed of his right to counsel—a technicality conforming to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling.

SENSING THE NEWS

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

TRIMMING AWAY THE FAT

The ordinary American, who finds the keeping of his check-book a not inconsiderable task, surely must be stunned at the size and complexity of the federal budget proposed by President Johnson. Congress, with all its expertise on fiscal matters, will be many weeks, if not months, unravelling all the threads of spending that Mr. Johnson has spun in the budget.

Yet every American, housewife as well as professional economist, can grasp the single most important feature of the budget: it is "super-colossal," to use a fanciful term employed by Hollywood motion picture producers. Indeed the administration budget is like a Hollywood production in all its lavishness.

It is true, of course, that a large part of the budget goes for necessary expenditures such as national defense. The American people can't afford to skimp on their own security. However, even here economy-minded congressmen should carefully scrutinize proposed spending.

Leaving defense aside, it is clear from the budget that Mr. Johnson intends not simply to have guns and butter, but guns and caviar and champagne. He hasn't proposed any reduction in lavish Great Society spending. On the contrary, the pro-administration "Washington Post" correctly points out that "outlays for health, education and general welfare programs are budgeted to rise." It adds that "the Great Society programs should be stronger on July 1, 1969, than they are at the present time."

This means that Mr. Johnson has refused to heed the warning yellow light flashed by the voters in the fall congressional elections. The Great Society was a major issue, and the voters sent a much-reinforced Republican contingent to Congress because of opposition to giveaways.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Johnson has not paid attention to the warning light. This is the time to cut down on unnecessary spending.

Consider the farm subsidy program, for instance. Today the U.S. has greatly depleted its former agricultural surpluses. This means that America is in an ideal position to get rid of the New Deal-style farm programs and to shift agriculture to a free market economy. Farmers and consumers could be happy at the same time, with an end to quotas and controls and subsidies. But Mr. Johnson has refused to take such reasonable action. Instead, he has budgeted $3.2 billion for farm subsidies and another $1.8 billion for farm income loss payments. The latter never won a friend for Uncle Sam.

Foreign aid has fewer and fewer friends in Congress. Even some of the milder liberals now realize that this kind of aid is "rat hole" assistance. Yet Mr. Johnson proposes to spend $3.23 billion on foreign aid. It will go to countries such as Egypt, which is doing Russia's business, in the Middle East, and to Haiti, the voodoo republic in the Caribbean that has a bloody-handed dictatorship that includes communists in its cabinet.

Mr. Johnson's determination to carry on the Great Society extravaganza is evident in his proposal that $18.3 billion be devoted to anti-poverty measures and related programs in the welfare field. This is the part of the budget that should receive principal attention from the revived conservative coalition in Congress. All good Americans are for health, education and welfare. But the question is one of means. The private sector of the economy, working with local communities and the states, is the best sector to handle such matters. Free enterprise is the real employer of our working population, and labor training and related programs should be based on what businessmen — practical citizens — determine is wise and necessary.

Indeed the best way to uplift poor families is to help the head of the family find a job. The way to provide new jobs is to ease the tax burdens on business and to give business incentives to invest more in new plants and services. Yet the Great Society penalizes business, and tries to put the government into the act at every level. This system can't succeed; it helps the poor citizen in the long run.

If the 90th Congress is a sensible Congress, it will trim the fat from the administration budget and give our enterprising people a chance to create a wider working with local communities prosperity.

BOMBS AWAY—With all the bombing of North Vietnam, U.S. flyers are still waiting for the go-ahead on these targets—power installations, seaports, factories and airfields.

A BIT FROM THE BIBLE

By Geo. M. Landis

WHEN GOD BECOMES A WILDERNESS

Text: "O generation, see ye the Word of the LORD. Have I been a wilderness unto Israel? a land of darkness? Wherefore say My people, We are lords; we will come no more unto Thee"—Jer. 2:34. What pathos in the Divine lamentation, when God inquires if He had become a wilderness unto His people. To appreciate what Israel by its actions esteemed God to be, think of what marks a wilderness. It is a dry place with no waters of refreshment, no rivers of pleasure. It is described in the sixth verse of our chapter as "a land of deserts and of pits . . . a land of drought, and of the shadow of death . . . a land that no man passeth through, and where no man dwelt." This was God to Israel. Is He ever that to us?

A wilderness is a desert with no fruit. Israel seemed to think that there was no fruit in serving God. Do we ever think thus of Him, the source of every blessing?

A wilderness is a dreary place with no beauty. Isaiah had prophesied of these same people, that when Messiah came, the language of their hearts would be, "He hath no form nor comeliness; and when we shall see Him, there is no beauty that we should desire Him." This was God to Israel.

"NEED TWO HANDS IN MY WORK." Russell G. Stratton, 27, shown in West Quincy, Mass., with wife and daughter, told doctors at Massachusetts General Hospital when he arrived carrying his sawed-off left hand. After 10 hours of surgery he felt a tingling and was hopeful. He's a carpenter.

Is He that to us?

A wilderness is a place of desolation, without inhabitants, "where no man dwelt." This suggests the absence of communion and fellowship with God. This God was to Israel. Is He that to us?

A wilderness is a place of darkness, where there is no light. That God was to Israel. Is He darkness to us?

And the wilderness is a place of death, "a land of the shadow of death." How tragic that the Lord of Light and Life had become as darkness and death to His chosen people. Eyes He meant Light and Life to us?

Lifeless formality had taken the place of vital devotion to God and the same causes produce the same results today.

CHAPTER 21
MISTER HUMMER, he is a real man. Kimo asked me thoughtfully, looking straight ahead down the trail as we approached the outskirts of Hilo.

I looked at the Hawaiian boy in surprise. "No. He's not bad. Why do you ask a fool question like that?"

He shrugged, still looking straight ahead. "I was outside window last night when you sat down. You hit him plenty hard. Mimi!" He jabbed at the air to illustrate his point. "I hear him say him in prison. Must be bad man."

"What the hell were you doing outside that window?" And I was wondering how much the hands at the ranch would know about the fracas as a result. Holman and I had agreed that nothing was to be said about the matter to anyone.

"Just walking past," the boy explained innocently. "Hear big noise and look in Big light. He turned to look at me with the seriousness of youth, shaking his head. "I no think I want to fight you ever, Mister Turk. You fight too hard!"

"It was nothing," assured him. "Mister Hummer and I just had a little trouble. It's all over now."

I had started out early from the ranch, explaining to the panole that Holman was sending me into Hilo to run an errand. I was less than a mile from the corral when Kimo had overtaken me, explaining that he was going for the mail.

"True some koloa man try to shoot you yesterday," he said. "Somebody try, maybe you better carry gun. Shoot back next time."

"Where would I get a gun?" My tone was sharper than I meant it to be. "The boss doesn't allow them."

"Oh, you have gun. I know," he declared. "See gun in your bag."

I pulled up my mount and reached out to grab his bridle. "What were you doing in my stuff?"

The boy looked at me, drawing back. "No mean it, Mister Turk. Mistake."

"Answer me! What were you doing in my bag?"

"Tun-san, he tell me to clean up bunkhouse one day. I sweep out and move around bags of all panole fillers. See piece of shirt sticking out of yours. Open up to put shirt back in. See gun. I not touch!"

He made the speech rapidly, as though trying to get it out before I should make up my mind about something. "I not touch!" he repeated.

"You tell anyone about the gun?" I asked.

"I hear Mister Holman tell you to find cow stealer," he went on. "Maybe you need gun now."

"As far as you're concerned, I don't have one." I told him from the Doubleday & Co. novel. Copyright 1966 by Jack Lewis. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

by his dress, but a koloa like myself.

The old man shrugged wearily as I asked for a description of the white man. He didn't look too closely. No one would steal anything from the warehouses. What would there be inside that a panole would want?

As I paid him, he grinned happily. He called his thanks after me as he stood leaning the money, and I turned to walk back along the wharf to where I had left my horse.

The Golden Dragon was hidden on a side street, and I found it only after asking directions of a Hawaiian boy who was playing in the street. It was located in a dilapidated frame structure that undoubtedly had not seen a coat of paint since it was built, and the roof had once been of shingle, but had been covered over with palm thatch as the snake had splintered beneath countless years of rain and sun.

There was a large plate-glass window on each side of the single door. These had been painted to resemble night with black paint and carvings, etched across each of them was the name of the establishment. The door was covered by strings of Chinese beads which were meant to keep out the flies and to offer semipermanence, but as I pushed through the rattling curtain I noticed that both efforts had failed.

A three-piece native orchestra stood on a small platform at the rear of the narrow deep room, playing intently. This was a young native girl clad in an abbreviated sarong performed an equally uninspired nua.

A dozen tables were scattered about the floor, but most of the customers all apparently seemed to be businessmen, and the place seemed dark after the brightness outside, and I hesitated for a moment before making my way to the bar, where the Chinese bartender waited expectantly. I pointed to a bottle of Scotch on the back bar, and he turned to pick it up, wiping off the gathered dust with a dirty apron.

He pushed an equally grimy glass before me and filled it as I threw some coins on the bar. Several of the seamen had looked up curiously as I entered, but went back to their own thoughts. The buzz of low conversation hung over the bar as I raised the drink and turned to look around.

Then I saw Jeff Slack seated at a table at the far side of the room.

"After all the months of terror, not knowing from where death might strike. It was easy to free him!" The story reaches a climax here tomorrow.

Utah Gets Tourney Bid; Syracuse Still Hoping

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Utah State, the team that spurned an NCAA bid, Syracuse, the team that yearned for one, and Jimmy Walker Inc.

Providence were the three major team Thursday to accept bids to the 30th National Invitation Basketball Tournament next month at Madison Square Garden.

The NIT committee filled half of its field of 14 with Memphis State, Marquette, Rutgers and little-known St. Peter's of New Jersey getting the other four spots for the tourney opening March 9 and closing March 18.

MASTER'S AT 79—Mrs. Knud S. Bay, assistant librarian at the high school in Sparta, N.J., is working on her master's degree thesis at 79. She was graduated from East Stroudsburg State College 60 years ago.

Remaining bids are expected to go to the runnerup teams in such major conferences as the Missouri Valley, Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Western Athletic and Mid-American. Some of these conferences don't end their seasons until after the NIT starts but those runnerups will probably be seeded directly into the quarter-finals.

Another team expected to receive a bid is Southern Illinois, the top-rated small college team in the nation. The Salukis spurned a bid from the NCAA college division tourney because they want to prove they deserve major college ranking. A good showing in the NIT would enhance Southern Illinois' argument.

Utah State turned down a bid in the NCAA major college tourney because one of its starters, Jim Smith, is a junior college transfer and wouldn't have been eligible. Since Utah State would have had to enter the NCAA's Far West regionals with UCLA, it also may have wisely decided that discretion is the better part of valor. Utah State finished second in 1960 in its only other NIT appearance.

But Seattle turned down an NIT bid for the NCAA nod and now must play defending champion Texas Western, which was switched from the Midwest regionals where it competed last year to the Far West competition. The NCAA is obviously attempting to make UCLA's path to the finals as tough as possible. With UCLA in the other half of the country, Syracuse was awarded one of the two NCAA at-large eastern berths that Boston College and St. John's received. BC and St. John's feel they'll eventually meet each other and that winner will go to the national finals against UCLA.

Syracuse, with a 19-9 record, figured it had the same golden opportunity if it got into the NCAA tourney—but the Chiefs' 71-64 loss to St. John's last Tuesday apparently decided things. Syracuse will now be making its fourth NIT showing.

Three of the seven teams invited to the NIT were in action Thursday night and Providence was the only victor. The Friars beat Rhode Island 99-73 while Marquette lost to Denver 100-87 and Rutgers was tripped by Connecticut 94-77.

School Tries To Save Job Of Coaches

CHICAGO (UPI) — The University of Illinois gambles next week to try to save the jobs of three coaches, head football Coach Pete Elliott, basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball Coach Howie Braun.

The university was slapped with one of the stiffest penalties in Big Ten records, an order to discharge the "three coaches" or give up its membership in the conference, because of excessive aid to 27 football and basketball players, 12 of them still in school.

President David Dodds Henry appealed on behalf of the university, throwing the whole case to the Big Ten faculty representatives and opening up the entire matter afresh.

"It's a new case so far as the faculty is concerned," a conference spokesman said. "They can do anything they wish."

The faculty will convene next week for a three day period beginning March 2, with a blank check to write against Illinois. They can uphold the penalty already defined by the athletic directors; they can expel the university from membership; they can restore the three coaches to their jobs conditionally and impose a penalty on the university; they can do anything.

The case has no precedent in the Big Ten. It was expected that the faculty would review the evidence submitted by Illinois to "show cause" why the three coaches should be retained and its membership not terminated, as well as the evidence which the Big Ten compiled and presented to the athletic directors Wednesday.

On the basis of the evidence Wednesday, the directors imposed the penalty—fire the coaches or quit the conference.

The case against Illinois grew out of the establishment of "slush funds" in 1962 and 1964 in basketball and football. The players found guilty of violations received from $15 to $50 per month in excess of the permissible board, room, tuition and books grants in aid.

Hank Aaron Will Be Riding A Big Car Regardless Of Hitting

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

Hank Aaron will be tooling around in a "big car" for the next two years whether or not he hits a single home run.

It was Ralph Kiner who 15 years ago analyzed baseball's modern law of economics with the comment, "The 300-hitters ride in the little cars and the home run hitters ride around in the big cars." As the National League's three-time home run king, Aaron will ride around in a big car this year all right, but his 1968 "wheels" won't depend upon his 1967 homer output.

Six-Figure Contract
That's because Hank signed a two-year contract for $100,000 annually Thursday to become the first six-figure player in the game's history to sign for more than one year.

Hank personally announced that he would aim for a high average this year rather than concentrating on hitting homers as he did in 1966.

"I made up my mind early last season that I was going to go for the home run title," said Aaron, who achieved his goal with a total of 44. "I get my batting average suffer in order to do it. This year I'm going to return to my normal style, going for the base hits and letting the homers fall when they may."

Aaron is the sixth player to sign a six-figure contract for 1967, joining Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers, Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Mickey Vernon of the New York Yankees.

The Braves also announced at West Palm Beach, Fla., that 34-game

Bob Seagren May Be Back Of Women

TORONTO (UPI) — Pole vaulter Bob Seagren, who is accustomed to soaring high in international track meets, may have to take a back seat to a talented group of female track stars at the Telegram-Maple Leaf Centennial Indoor Games tonight.

The 20-year-old student from the University of Southern California will be trying to set a new world record of 17-feet, seven inches but he may be upstaged by any one of the several first class female stars at the meet.

The 880-yards, in which Madeline Manning of Cleveland and Abigail Hoffman of Toronto will be dueling for a world record, or the 50-yard dash in which the "fastest woman alive," Wyomia Tyus, will be competing could become the main feature of the games.

Seagren has the advantage of being in the opening event but by the time he gets wound up to the 17 foot mark, the girls may have captured all the laurels.

Seagren, gaining momentum after setting a new indoor record of 17-feet, three inches in Cleveland last week, will be trying to "match higher" than the world record of 17-6 1/4 set by John Pospel.

Miss Manning won the 880 here last year with a time of two minutes, 10 and two-tenths seconds. She will have to do better this year, however, as Miss Hoffman lowered the record to two minutes, eight and four-tenths seconds in Vancouver last week.

Pittsburgh Pirates' Outfielder Steve Whitaker received a slight raise when he signed with the Yankees. Tommy Holmes, Billy McCool, Jack Balderson, Tommy Harper, Chico Ruiz, Don Pavletich and Bernie Carbo all signed with the Reds and infielder Bobby Erdridge agreed to terms with the San Francisco Giants, leaving 25-game winner Jan Muralich and rookie pitcher Rick Robertson their only insign-

Rookies Bob Robertson and Lathier Quinn agreed to terms with third player.
